

<2.1 Reflection>

One difference between both our perspectives on the drawing process was that I color firstly but my partner does freehand sketches firstly. I am especially interested in the sketch process. Because I usually sketch roughly without any refined figure. But now, I figured out that the ways of sketches differ person by person. So, I want to execute an observational study on that process.